

The term "Intersectionality" was coined by Kimberlé Crenshaw (1989) to describe how structural factors connect and impact people's health outcomes. This is true for women living with HIV, and who face structural risk factors for HIV. This includes factors such as racism, misogyny, classism, transphobia and more.

Reference: Coaston, Jane. (2019) The Intersectionality Wars. Retrieved from www.vox.com/the-highlight/2019/5/20/18542843/intersectionality-conservatism-law-race-gender-discrimination.

**Please note that the size of the circle does not denote population size, but is simply a stylistic choice.*

Populations Most-Impacted

These populations also include those who are pregnant or parenting, living with different abilities, and from varying ages including from young adult to senior.

